NO PRECAUTION TAKEN

American Officials Give Infense as War Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—There is a strong possibility that the United States may change its attitude toward what constitutes arming a merchant vessel, and, in the light of the development of submarine warfare, may hold that the mounting of small defense guns only, heretofore considered as not arming a ship, may be considered armament which will remove the vessel from the non-combatant class.

will remove the vessel from the non-combstant class.
State Department officials gave strong indications of this today and stated that when the United States, at the begin-ning of the war, declared that passenger ships carrying defense guns of small callber would be permitted to enter and leave American ports and would not be classed as war vessels, submarine war-fare had not developed to its present stage.

MERICAN YOUTH RELATES FURTHER INCIDENTS IN HIS EXPERIENCES ON THE U-39

Carl List Describes Attack on the Anglo-Californian, Which Escaped, and Tells of Seeing Great German Fleet.

THE Post-Dispatch today presents the second installment of the story of Carl Franz List, an American youth, a sailor on board a Nor wegian ship sunk off the Irish coast by the German submarine U-39 He remained on board the submarine 11 days while the undersea boat raked the Irish Sea and sent to the bottom 11 merchant ships and came near being sunk herself. The youth's story was edited by Henry Reuterahl, the famous naval artist and writer. The first installment appeared in Post-Dispatch of Sunday.

Officials of the printing company have stated that the presence of the barrels and boxes was a mystery to them, and have said that they were positive the barrels and boxes were not in the building, a seven-story one, when it was locked for the night.

Roy M. B. Tidd, president of the printing firm, and Mayor of Webster Groves, has told the police and fire officials that he was the last person to leave the building. He locked up, ne said, about 5:15 p. m. The fire started about two hours later, and got such a rapid start that three alarms were sounded quickly.

The barrels were found in the rear of the building, near the elevator shaft where the fire seemed concentrated. One barrel was on the first floor, one on the second floor and one on the third. Of the four boxes, one was found on ing company carried $40,000 insurance on its equipment. Of this $27,000 was taken out last July. He said this extra insurance was taken out because the company had at that time purchased addition to the fourth and one of the fourth and one of tional equipment which required that amount of insurance. He said the company's business, in July and August, was above normal for those months. Tidd said that he was alone in the building after 4:39 p. m., when the superintendent, H. L. Beeman of 4112 Russell avenue, left. Officials of the company have stated that it was a strict rule not to have more than two gallons of gasoline in the place at one time. This was done, they said, because of insurance regulations. Detectives reported today that the barrels and boxes evidently had been taken into the building through a rear door, which leads from the elevator shaft to the receiving platform in the

Can Do Nothing but Think in Headlong Dive to Death When Pilot Is Hit.

By E. P. GREY,
Editor of the Aeroplane.
Special Correspondence of the PostDispatch.
LONDON, Aug. 22.—In reading through the casualty lists here every now and then one comes across the name of an officer "attached Royal Flying Corps." officer "attached Royal Flying Corps."
He is generally not an aviator, but is doing duty as an observation officer on reconnaissance, or as an artillery spotter, or possibly is handling a machine gun on a fighting machine. In 6:00 P. M. Daily. any case he is a passenger, and some how the passenger in an aeroplane never gets quite as much sympathy in his trouble as does a pilot. Now, as a matter of fact, the passenger has a very much more unpleas-snt time, because if anything goes wrong the pliot at any wrong the pliot at any rate has his mind kept busy in wrestling with his machine, whereas the passenger has nothing to do except sit still and think, and if anything heavenothing to do except sit still and think, and if anything happens at a height of six or seven thousand feet there is time to do quite a lot of thinking be-of course, when the artillery spotter is watching his mark and signalling his battery, or when the observation officer s busy inspecting the ground below and making notes or when the machine gun operator is in the middle of a scrap with an enemy aeroplane he is naturally well occupied and so has no time to worry. It is when the unpleasant things happen that a passenger has the worst

Sees His Pilot Faint.

The other day a very fine story was told of a pilot who was hit in the leg consciousness in time to regain control of the machine. Thereafter with mag-nificent pluck he flew the machine 35 miles to the nearest British aerodrome and retained his consciousness till he was safely on the ground, was safely of the ground.

First of all, it dived vertically, and he had time to realize that the pilot was unconscious; then, when the pilot regained consciousness, he had to sit doing nothing for at least half an hour.

Kingsbury (wondering all the time whether the pilot would faint again before he got home, and possibly meditating how disappointing it would be if the pilot fainted a hundred feet or so from the ground in the act of landing and man-aged to kill them both in sight of home. As a matter of fact, I do know of one case in which a pilot aione in a machine was badly hit at a height of a thousand feet and lost consciousness at 205 feet from the ground. Nevertheless some curious subconscious instinct helped him to make an absolutely perfect landing, and luck brought the ma-chine within about 50 yards of one of cur own motor ambulances, but even the recollection of that performance would hardly be any great consolation to the passenger in a machine with an

Has to Sit and Be Fried. In another case mentioned recently it caught fire in the air and the pilot and his passenger safely, but one can imagine the feelings of the passenger, who, while the ammunition of his ma-chine gun kept popping off all around him, had nothing to do except sit and be fried and wonder whether the tail would be burned off the machine before they got to the ground.

Not so long ago two officers were give en the D. S. O. under circumstances which also showed up the bravery of the passenger. In this case the pilot was hit in the neck and jaw, and con-tinued piloting the machine, while the passenger rendered first aid with such material as all soldiers carry. The pilot, instead of turning around and coming home, very bravely carried on and finished his reconnaissance, and one can only hope that the passenger was so busy observing that he had no time to wonder if the pilot's wounds would knock him out before they finished. knock him out before they finished. Comparatively early in the war a pilot on another machine was going out on reconnaissance when a bullet glanced along the frame of his goggles without breaking the glass and without hitting him, but it drove the metal of the goggies into his forehead and made quite a nastly little wound. Thinking he had been hit in the head, he instinctively it go his controls and put his hands up to his forehead.

The machine promptly stood on its nose and the horrified passenger, looking up behind him, saw the pilot with blood up behind him, saw the pilot with blood spurting out from between his fingers, apparently from a bad head wound. Naturally he was considerably relieved a mement or two afterwards to see the pilot wipe the blood out of his eyes, pull his goggles back into their place and take control of the machine again, but he admitted afterward that even those few moments gave him considerables. The new imported Scotch Madras, which we are now showing, includes any number of new patterns, at prices ranging, the yard, from 12½e to $1.50 those few moments gave him considerably more time to think than he really Passenger Is Helpless.

The worst of it. from the passenger oint of view, is that if the pilot is The worst of it, from the passenger point of view, is that if the pilot is knocked out the passenger has no means of controlling the machine himself. At best the passenger trusts himself absolutely to the pilot's skill and personally or an aeroplane I always feel rather as if I were riding in a very fast auto with no brakes with a driver whose habits on the road I did not know.

Of course, actually a passenger on any railway train trusts quite as much to the skill and judgment of the driver, but one has got so used to railway trains that one always forgets that somewhat important fact. Doubtless in time we shall get equally used to trusting our lives, which somehow seem perticularly precious to us whatever they may be to other people, with equal confidence to the skill of the pilots of big passenger-carrying aeroplanes.

In the meantime the lot of the passenger on active service is by no means a happy one, though it certainly might be made rather happier if some one would evoke a simple means of dual control which would not only allow the passenger to save his neck if the pilot

Adaptations Paris Models

300 new, trimmed hats will be presented to-morrow in our MEDIUM-PRICED Millinery Section. Many very clever and decidedly original ideas have been created by the noted French rtists, and from these our designers have received their inspiration, thereby producing unusually smart ideas at these medium prices. Two hats that we illustrate are exact copies of imported models. "The Neutrality" is one of the new veil hats that promise to be one of the most desired for smart street hats, and also adapted for auto wear. The "Castle Sailer" is one of the many new high crowns which has created such a stir on Fifth Avenue. Remember the higher the crown the smarter the hat. (Second Floor.

National Geographic Society Communication Tells of Varieties of Birds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 .- With the eginning of the hunting season, the eight kinds of quall and five kinds of grouse. While America's preserves are of the world for their wealth of game the writer shows that they are hunted "America has always been a paradise for sportsmen, but of late years the number of those whose chief relaxaion is the pursuit of game has greatlarge and small game of America can better be imagined than described. Modern guns and ammunition are of the very best, and they are sold at prices so low as to be within the reach of all. Added to these very efficient wapon for killing small game are innumerable devices for killing waterfowl, as sueak-boats, punt-guns, swivel-guns, salt-boats, steam launches, night floating, night lighting and others."

Varieties of Game Duck.

The varieties of American game duck given by Henshaw are baldpate, Barrow's golden-eye, black, bufflehead, king, Pacific, spectacled and Steller's elder, fulvous tree-duck, mallard, merganser, red-head, pintall, scaup, sector ganser, red-head, pintail, scaup, scoter, canvas-back, shoveller and teal. Of con-

"The canvas-back, perhaps the most famous of American waterfowl, has pur-chased its fame at a price. So highly is it prized by the epicure that today he who can afford to dine on canvas-back sets the mark of luxurious living. Not that the canvas-back differs essentially from other ducks, but its exceptional flavor is due to the fact that its favorite food in 'wild celery,' a long ribbon-like grass which grows in shallow ponds and estuaries. As the plant roots several feet under the surface, only the diving ducks can obtain it and the plebeian kinds have to be content with such floating fragments as they can pick up or can steal from their more aristocratic relatives. In Oregon and Washington, the canvas-back lives much upon wapato, a bulb-like root formerly a staple article of food among many Indian tribes, and their exceptional flavor is said to be little, if any, inferior to tha of the celery-fed canvas-back of the East. Prized alike by sportsman and by epicure, the ranks of the canvas-back have been depleted by the relentless purhave been depieted by the relentiess pur-suit to which it has been subjected. However, the greater number of these ducks breed far to the northward where they are safe, and under present laws their number should increase to some thing like their former abundance."

Importance of Protection.

Despite this country's present vast wealth in game birds, according to the writer, they would soon be shot away but for proper protection. As it is, he continues, the numbers of game birds today are quite insignificant when compared to the abundance of former days. Destruction of former breeding places by drainage and, more especially, the pursuit with firearms, are the causes assigned for the falling off of supply. Hen-shaw writes:

iclers regarding the multitudes of ducks, plover, and wild pigeons almost defy belief. When, in the records of the first part of the last century, one reads of clouds of pigeons that required three days to pass a given point in a contin-uous moving stream, and again of flocks estimated to contain more than two billion birds, credulity is taxed to the limit. Yet not only one such flock was observed, but they were of periodic occurence during many years of our early history, and the accounts of them are too well attested to be doubted. As throwing a curious sidelight on the abundance of wild fowl and the hardships to which the slaves of the period were subjected, I quote from Grinnel, who states that 'in early days slave owners, who hired out their slaver, stipulated in the contract that canvas-back ducks should not be fed to them more than twice each week!"

game resources. Henshaw states that Oregon values her game resources, con-sisting largely of game birds, at $5,000,000 a year, while California and Maine each claim their game to be worth $20,000,000 a year, which suggests the enormous aggregate value of the country's game. Henshaw concludes his communication with an expression of the belief that the Government and the people of the country should do all in their power to protect and to bring about a rightful use of this rich heritage.

EADS COLLEGE BOARD GERMAN ARMY SUPERIOR IN STRATEGY AND ARTILLERY, FRENCH OFFICER SAYS

Gen. Malleterre Writes That Kaiser Will Be Overcome Only After Allies Adopt His Methods-Compares Campaign to That of 1870.

N. MALLETERRE, author of this article, is one of the youngest French Generals. He took a prominent part in the Battle of the Marne, was severely wounded, lost an arm, and now is Governor of the Invalides in Paris.

By GEN. MALLETERRE. From Aug. 4 to Sept. 4, 1870, the Ger-an victory was decisive. From Aug. 4 to Sept. 4, 1914, the German victory was imminent. It looked served with plenty and by method. The

as if the same sequels of catastrophe as in 1870 were to be repeated with lightning rapidity, and now that the disaster has not only been averted, but that a just fortune has stopped the adversary in the full intoxication of triumph, we can say that some of the umph, we can say that some of the masses put in line by the armed nations causes came very nearly producing the battlefield would be greatly en same effects. All know how Germany had prepared for this war, which was to have assured its supremacy; how its perfidi-ous policy had dissimulated the plot which was being hatched against the central Powers in the last year. It is not necessary to repeat what has been so amply proved.

But even today, and with even mornsistence, because the events justify and even force us to do so, it is well to point out the causes of superiority which has shown itself so dreaded, so capable of prolonged efforts, even after o unlooked for checks, and which we an only hope to break up by a force which has become superior to its own

Superior Strategy and Artillery. From those divers and multiple causes ve will only mention two principlessame as we found in 1870-viz., the eriority of strategy and the superior ity in war material, particularly in artillery. As to the strategy we will only speak briefly because really the German plan of 1914, which follows the one of 1870, only on a more elaborate scale, has failed.

The famous plan of Moltke in 1870, in spired by a thorough knowledge of the theater of operations, as well as of the weakness of the French army, had for its object the envelopment and the de-struction of that army, after cutting it off from its base with the interior of the country. The strategical disposition was the envelopement of one or the other wing, the turning of the left wing through Lorraine, south of Metz. The definite and decisive object was Paris. There was no question then of the vio-lation of Belgium.

German politicians then were more careful to keep the good will of the neutrals. Moreover, the theater of oper-tions, between Luxemburg and the Rhine, was sufficient for the offensive of the German army, whose field maxium was about 600,000 men.

The plan of 1914 is derived from the same method. This always was the envelopment of one wing, the rupture of the organized force under the weight of numerical and material superiority and the capture of Paris. But how far more majestic is the strategical conception, because she must be in bearing with the formidable development of the German power, forced to fight on two sides, far from each other,

We all know what occurred. Germany realed in August, 1914, just as she did n August, 1870, that force of conception of organization and execution of which trustful, were not able to discern or

It was not only the sudden and terri fying vision of these armies, carried forward by a strategy so bold that it was scornful of the rights of neutrals, crush ing Belgium with her torrent and repeat ing in a few days the triumphant advance of 1870, which made the hearts of our soldiers shudder and threw our peoour soldiers shudder and threw our peo-ple into panic.

The impression, or rather the terror, was intensified in seeing on the vast front from Brussels to the Vosges, the German masses, everywhere dense and compact, and in recognizing the fact that the German war machine had doubled the active mobilized army with a second army equivalent to the first, consisting of reserve corps, and that she threw against us more than 2.000.000 men. But against us more than 2,000,000 men. But that was not all. To this incontestible numerical superiority was added material which at first seemed crushing.

We are not ignorant of the care and method with which the Germans had associated the destructive forces to tached great importance to the pos-session of an artillery extremely pow-erful. Moreover, we did not expect that this material, reported only in the process of formation, was so com-

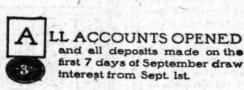

Endless Discussion Recalled.

On the other hand we recall the ndless discussion called forth by the endless discussion called forth by the introduction in our army of heavy artillery. Our artillery staff had absolute confidence in the superiority of our "75," not only for the similar cannon of "77" in the German army, but also their heavier callber guns—howitzers of 105, 150, cannons of 105, 130 and 210, and were not altogether wrong. We counted especially on the remarkable mobility of their batteries, on their experience in defilatory fire, on the recognized efficacy of the projectile, and we deducted, not without reason, that the heavy artillery was Brimarily an artillery of fixed positions, difficult to transport, and to provision, that its greater range and its destructive effects were in a measure compensated by the incertitude of exact range finding on invisible and moving objects of long distance.

They threw explosive shells with good results. But our "75" melinite shells, results. But our "75" melinite shells, brute force. She adopted successively after all, showed superiority, and as a result our heavy artillery was neglected explosive shell of double the weight of result our heavy artillery was neglected and left in suspense and our "75" be-came the base of our field artillery.

Every Possible Means, However, Is Taken to Persuade Others to Enlist.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 7.—Ev. rything possible short of conscription is being done to get more recruits in Australia. There are, after a year of the war, 90,000 Australians under arms, either in the firing line at the Darda-nelles are in training camps, but the lemand for men grows more and more

Although the Ministry of Defense de-Although the Ministry of Defense de-nies that it looks to conscription, a cen-sus of unmarried men has just been taken by the police of the various states to determine the fighting strength. The result of this has not been made public. The campaign to enlist volunteers, how-ever, takes on new vigor each day. There are speeches by civil and mili-tary authorities; there are newspaper appeals; there are huge advertising posters; there are parades, and there is even the display of wounded soldiers—all to the same end. In this State (Victoria) a recruiting campaign covering the last three weeks of July resulted in more than 18,000 enlistments, a number which, it is pointed out, equals the strength of the entire Australian force which was sent to Egypt last November. The fact that New South Wales is n virtually all things a rival of Victoriain some ways jealously so-hgures to a certain extent in a recruiting campaign which is now in progress there.

Business Houses Help. Business houses all over Australia are making it easier for young men in their employ to enlist by either keeping up their pay or promising them their old places if they return. To induce men-even with independents—to join the colors, the press is, by request of the military authorities, printing almost daily, the liberal rates of pay for Australians on active service and the pensions which will be paid the disabled and the relatives of such officers and privates as may be killed. But the chief appeal is to patriotism and never have the antipodes seen such a widespread and ardent use as nowa-days of the Union Jack of the empire and the southern cross of the young Australian Federation. The Government will have comparatively little trouble in clothing the greatly augmented number of volunteers, but it will have considerable difficulty in arming them. It is not improbable that it will have to have the assistance of the Imperial Government in this respect.

Wounded Brought Back

Meanwhile wounded men are beginning be brought back all the way from the allipoli peninsula in fair numbers. By November it is likely that with coolec weather in the Red Sea many more will be returned home. Elaborate prepara-tions have been made for the care and treatment of these soldiers. In order to raise funds for this, July 30 was chosen as "Australia day" and every conceiv-able method of obtaining and soliciting contributions was employed on that date from one end of the Commonwealth to the other. Melbourne and Sydney re-sembled nothing so much as huge coun-try fairs. The result of the patriotic charity was a sum which, with the re-turns not yet in from many sections, nts to nearly $4,000,000.

her "77" gun; then the heavy howitzer of "105," and then, utilizing to her utmost the progress of automobile trucks, Krupps constructed their heavy 42-centimeter guns. Those heavy ordnance pieces took the place of a great many of their "77" field pieces. In 1915 Germany disposed of 160 field pieces by army corps, of which 16 were light howitzer batteries and of long range pieces. Our army corps artillery only amounted to 120 pieces. Each corps had a group of "120" and "155," both antiquated ma-

Again we see the superiority of number and power, as in 1870. Accordingly it is easy to understand the terrible surprise of our troops in seeing themselves crushed at the first contact by that avalanche of heavy shells hurted against them from invisible positions, the fire of which our artillery could not answer. Another unexpected tactic occurred also, when, before their infantry attacks, the Germans preceded it with a veritable hall of shells of all calibers, stopping and driving back our infantry attacks, the Germans preceded it with a veritable bail of shells of all calibers, stopping and driving back our already sorely pressed lines.

Strategical, numerical and material superiority we find in the German offensive of 1870 and 1914. Germany counted also on her moral superiority based on the confidence of the invincible power of her army, and by her conviction that all these essentials were lacking in her adversary.

But there was a straw in her armor. France of 1814 was not the France of 1810. And after the surprise of the first shock she applied herself with mighty affort, and the result was the battle of the Marne. After one year of war the victory of the Marne is still the dominant factor. The war has transformed itself, it has extended itself on immanse iorified fronts; it has become a war of siege, where the old methods of warfare, long thought obsolete, have reappeared. Even on the western front, where in a certain degree the warfare has still retained its classical features in the battles of the masses, trench warfare is the predominant factor.

rront; or the battle of Poland, Carpa-hians, of Galicia, of Lithuania on the sastern front. It is even possible to des-gnate them as the battles of the Oc-ident and the battle of the Orient. The heavy artillery has henceforth mposed its role in the war of fortifica tions. The Germans, notwithstanding that their offensive has been broken have retained up to now the benefits and advantages of their formidable preparation. There is no gainsaying the fact that the Germans, after we have been deceived in many of our hopes, and still able to prolong the struggle and to inflict heavy blows; and because of this who has world deceived. ecause of this she has molded herself nto one vast military armor and utilized all her resources in one immense produc-tion of war material. Notwithstanding the blockade, which isolates, she finds

To reduce her, we must crush her un-der an avalanche of fire and shells which has always remained the principal element of her withering offensive, and which allows her to retain her hold on foreign territory.

MARSHALL Mo., Sept 7. Ten Minnie Reaubeaus already have wired of written claims to the $20,000 in gold coin home of Charles Reaubeau, a recluse who died several years ago. The mes-sages began coming in almost immedi-ately after publication in the newspa pers of the finding of the treasure and the will, which left the gold to Minnh Reaubeau, a niece of the old man.

Reaubeau lived near the bank of the Blackwater River. It was believed when he died that he had considerable money, but no trace of it could be found in the in her mobilized industries and in the house or in the yard, which was due up. It was not until a flood a few weeks ago washed away the old house and exposed a corner of an iron box burled under it that the treasure was found. In the box was a will and sev-

Exposure by Post-Dispatch Had Forced Professionals to Leave East Side Cities.

Professional gamblers who were driven out of Madison, Alton, Venice and East St. Louis, following exposure by the Post-Dispatch, have se up again in Madison without molestation by the police, and are flourishing on the patronage of St. Louisans, a reporter discovered last night.

The Illinois Traction car leaving St. Louis at 8 o'clock carried a score of men bound for the east side. When State street, Madison, was reached, one of these called in a loud voice, "All out for little Monte Carlo!"

The crowd spread, going into saoons. Fifteen automobiles were standing in front of Bennett's buffet, 20 State street, and there was a coninual stream of persons passing brough its doors.

At the far end of the bar double oors oponed into a rear room, which was guarded by three men seated nearby. A PURE WHITE MINERAL OIL

WHEN war broke out last August, importations of Russian mineral oil ceased abruptly. Prices in this country doubled, tripled, and soon Russian mineral oil could not be obtained at any price.

At that time no mineral oil was produced in this country equal to the imported product, but in Nujol we can now offer an American oil equal in every respect to the best of the imported Nujol is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

Write for "The Rational Treatment of Constipation," an informative treatise on constipation. If you cannot get Nujol from your druggist, we will send you a pint bottle prepaid to any point in the United States on receipt of 75c—money order or stamps.

"COMPARISONS" BY MR. ROACH.

"I have seen to it," declares Secretary of State touch, "that the country newspapers have published figures showing the real contributions made to the schools by the Democratic administration. The party will not suffer by the comarisons I have made."

The saddening total, representing not only the ums for the primary schools but those for the university, the normal schools and other state educational institutions, has been given undesirable publicity by Mr. Roach's boiler-plate press articles. Does he think that any comparison could be made in which those pitiful figures would not suffer?

The newspapers of Michigan, like those of Missouri, are just now printing long tabulations showing the summer apportionment of primary, funds, or State school subsidy, to the counties. Michigan has 31 counties less than Missouri. Its area is 10,502 square miles less. It had under the 1910 census 483,162 less population than Missouri. But whereas Missouri's school fund, figured in the legal way, would have amounted to only $2,124,057 this year, Michigan has actually apportioned and is now paying over to its counties for common schools the sum of $6,439,361.

By including appropriations for the various institutions Mr. Roach was able to make a total for education about half of this sum. But it ence, the populace soundly thrashed a male who must be remembered that the $6,439,361 is for had roughly handled his wife in their presence instruction in the common branches alone. Difficulties due to these causes are not serious.

Responsibility for the decision of motions on preliminary pleading will rest with the Presiding Judge. Responsibility for the conduct of cases will rest with the trial Judge to whom specific cases are assigned. This seems to result in a divided responsibility for errors resulting in the reversal of judgments by appellate course and may be a source of weakness. The new plan, however, represents much thought by qualified minds as a solution of the problem of ineffective his future political conduct is very in teresting." Mr. Antwine said. says that while he will not hold public office again, he must not be understood to mean that he has ended his career as a candidate. There is some question whether Mr. Bryan cares to hold public office. He was given one by Mr. Wilson, and shortly resigned it. There is, however, no doubt that he likes to be a candidate. It is not likely that we have altogether impression that he continually hungers for public office, we have sometimes objected to him as a candidate when, had we understood him better, we would have had no objection whatever. He does not care for office; he only wants to run for office. That being the case, our consciences are pretty clear. We have always consented to let him run, and have usually taken pretty good care that he never won. The inference from what he said the other day that in doing as we have done we have suited both Mr. Bryan and ourselves. I for one am glad to know this. "If we analyze the ground upon which he stands,

There is no whipping post in the scheme of Missouri jurisprudence-nor do we find occasion to plead for one. Possibly the infrequency of occasions is due to the prompt public chivalry which does not wait to search the statutes before acting on its plain duty.

I think we must rate it pretty high. Most of our public men not only want to run for public office, but they want to be elected. Not so with Mr. Bryan the next twenty years as he has seen in the last twenty he will be happy. Another man would have said that things might have been better, leaving us to infer that if he has been elected oftener the country would have progressed faster and fewer things would remain to be fixed. Mr. Bryan neither says nor intimates anything of the kind. He says a great deal has been achieved, and seems entirely satisfied deal has been achieved, and seems entirely satisfied by the part he has played in getting things done. Surely that is unselfish enough. I don't recall that Henry Clay, who had quite a career as a candidate, ever said anything of the kind, and I am sure that James G. Blaine never did. It is higher ground than her Receivedt stands on because Mr. Receivedt al-Mr. Boosevelt stands on, because Mr. Boosevelt al-ways gives us the impression that things would have been different had he been in office. I has now become quite plain what the Russians are doing. They are effecting a junction with the Japanese. We figured up their total mileage for last week, and on the basis of twenty miles an hour, which is about what they are making, they will arrive at Vladivostok in about staty days. They will then got all the ammunition the Jap Americans have stored in the warehouses as Viadivostok, join with the Japanese in a counter movement toward Europe, and be in Berlin about the time the Kaiser exhausts himself howling for peace. "The lady is your wife?" he inquired with great gravity.
"Yes," I assented. "Will you explain.

"Seditious correspondence," spoke the official tersely. "She is the possessor of a warning letter from a spy, an Italian woman. I shall have to detain you as well, for the lady declares she can-not even read the letter. She found it in your overcoat, she says"—

The word burst in a quick gasp un restrainedly from my lips. Enlighten-ment flashed into my mind instantaneously. Never had I talked so fast! I knew what detention would mean among these suspicious emissaries of a government prejudiced against all foreigners. Vehemently I insisted that the impetuous greeting of the prisoner back the line had been a clever ruse to cover her secret delivery to me of a letter she hoped I would mail to an ac-

One day both boys went up to the very top of the mountain in search of a lost goat. In following the animal they discovered a chest hidden under a log, and in it was a harp about a foot high, fashioned of rough wood, with strings of coarse leather. elimination of Champion Williams Brings Johnston Against McLoughlin in Final.

NATIVE SON IMPROVES

His Defeat of the Foreign-Coached Title Holder Yesterday Was Impressive.

rice McLoughlin, because of the seeming return to his old-time dash and form shown in the national tournament play here this week, was favored today in from William Johnston, a California teammate, in the final for the United States title.

Because of his defeat yesterday of National Champion R. Norris Williams II. Johnston has focused the attention of the tennis world and his performances were closely scrutinized by the dopesters to find some gleam of hope for picking him to beat the California Comet. But none presented itself. While Johnston has shown improvement, even his match yesterday, when he lifted himself above the second ranking player in the country, fell short of what McLoughlin has shown this year.

McLoughlin has shown this year.

McLoughlin has hown this year.

McLoughlin has aiready beaten Johnston, doing the trick in four sets in the final of the Panama-Pacific tourney.

That was when McLoughlin was not going well. The Comet left a trail of indifferent performances behind him up to the time he started the national championship, when he suddenly came to life with his old-time vigor.

At his best Johnston does not seem able to dispose of the champion, although a terrific match is on, although a terrific match is

As an incentive to make McLoughlin extend himself is the fact that victory in this final will make the necessary three victories to give him permanent possession of the trophy. McLoughlin was victor over in the All-Comers events of 1912 and '13. He lost unexpectedly at the top of his career last season, when Norris Williams trimmed him. It was an acknowledged fact, however, that if Johnston played the same brilliant allround game today that he showed against Williams, McLoughlin would be forced to play better tennis season in the East if he koped to win. If Johnston wins the champlonship he will be the youngest player to gain that distinction in many years. He is but 20 years of age. He comes from San Francisco, and since his first appearance in the East, three years ago, he has been ranked among the country's leading players.

The match is scheduled to begin at 2 pp. m. The weather this morning was threatening, and unless the sun shines all day, prospects are that the turd court would be slow.

Misto Williams Puts One Over.

Christy Williams, a negro middle-weight boxer participating in the bouts that take place at the Future City A.

C. on Friday nights, is pulling a trick that Referee Sam Dixon should call him for good and hard.

When Williams is hard pressed, or cornered, and wishes to gain time, he throws himself against the ropes, then hangs over the top one, goes between them, or slips to the floor of the ring. His opponent, of course, is waved away by the referee and steps back. In the meantime, Williams is getting a new lease on his wind and strength, and has escaped some punishment.

As a matter of fact, Williams goes down without being struck, but does it in a cunning sort of way. Going down without being struck is something that a boxer may be disqualified for, according to London Prize-Ring Ruies, and this has been accepted as part of the Queensberry code.

Williams executed his neat trick a num-Misto Williams Puts One Over. Nelson had trimmed Waugh.

Perhaps he might have done something of the sort; but it is more than probable his statements in this respect were done more to swell the Labor day gate than with any idea of actually sending back Bat, at the age of 33, to chase a championship.

Bat's knuckles are now of chalk; his body is weakened by the hard pounding of many punishing campaigns; no doubt his abdominal cravices are beginning to be larded with permanent fat deposits, slight, but fatal to athletic prime; the edge is off his speed; the snap is gone from the punch; and that inestimable prize of youth, ambition, is dead in him beyond reviving.

And that is the clay from which to remold a champion! Bo, it's not even a joke—it's an insult to the intelligence.

the Billikens will begin in earnest. Keogan's men will remain at St. Clair until Sept. 30, returning here two days prior to the season's first game, which will be with the Southern Illinois Normal School. This game will be played at Carbondale, Ill.

Keogan is intensely optimistic over the outlook this season, as he has more seasoned timber and a larger squad to work with than last year. He expects S players to report at St. Clair, where excellent hotel accommodations already have been arranged for. All of last year's varsity squad, with the exception of Nyquist. FED AGENTS HAD RICKEY DECLARES

Big Right-Hander Sold to Detroit Was "in Bad" With Browns' Manager, CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7. - The Browns came to Cleveland this morn-ing minus a large wad of money and the only right-handed pitcher of the hurling corps who was regarded as a regular.

The treasury of the St. Louis chu

The treasury of the St. Louis club was not enriched some $5000 because the Labor day bargain bill between the Browns and Tigers in Detroit yesterday was washed away by rain. This cost Col. Hedges something like a cool $5000, while the Detroit club is poorer 10,000 because of the purchase of Grover Lowdermilk.

The gate receipts may not be lost entirely, as plans are afoot to have the Browns drop off in Detroit Sept. 20, which is open for the two teams. On that day, however, the holiday tinge will be taken off the baseball matines. Then there is a chance that the Tigers will not then be in the fight.

Manager Rickey says that Lowdermilk may win the pennant for the Tigers who are supposed to have everything but good pitching. He adds that Lowdermilk did not fit in well in St Louis club.

Rickey Likes His Staff.

"Lowdermik's loss will not weaken the Browns' pitching department," said Rickey in commenting on the sale of the big pitcher. "You can say for me that in Wellman, Hamilton, Hoff and Koob, I have the nucleus of a good pitching staff. I will also have some 12 young right handers to plok from.

"Hamilton's return to form had considerable to do with the disposal of Lowdermik. Hamilton is now in his old time form and one of the really great pitchers of the country, in picking the four best pitchers in the game, I would not name Hamilton as my fourth pitcher."

While Rickey refused to admit

While Rickey refused to admit it, it is understood that Lowdermilk was too much interested in the Federal League to do himself justice as a pitcher on the St. Louis club. Rickey is pleased rather than disappointed that Lowdermilk is no longer a member of the Browns. The big fel-low didn't "belong."

Prior to the Yankees' double victory over the Red Sox yesterday. Detroit fans were about ready to hang out the white fing. They felt that the two defeats dealt out by the Browns to the Tigers in the five-game saries in St. Louis had about finished the Tigers so far as a pennant was concerned.

But the double spanking of the Red Sox coupled with the Tigers' acquisition of Lowdermilk, has revived pennant hopes in the city of Henry Ford. But one game now separates the two flag contenders.

Kids in Browns' Lineup. The Browns will meet the Indians here today with several kids on the lineup. Rickey said he would make use of Sisler. Lee, Ruel and Jacobson, while Jim Parks, the Lexington right-hander, will start the Here's an interesting item about Ty Cobb: The Browns and Tigers departed from St. Louis Sunday night on the same train bound for Detroit. At 7 o'clock, the departing time, everyone was aboard the Pullman but Tyrus. Did the train viout? Not by a jusful, Mr Interest was told that Cobb was not present and the did was to wait 12 minutes until Ty stroiled leisurely through the gates and climbed aboard the train. And he wasn't out of breath either. They all bow to King Ty.

BRICK COTTAGES

A yellow leghorn hen at the home of Ed Hoeckstra, near East Alton, has begun mothering four young kittens. When an attempt was made to break the hen from setting by removing the eggs from her nest, she searched about and found, under the manger in the barn, the kittens, the mother of which was absent. She promptly adopted them, and now goes about the yard clucking to them as proudly as if they were a brood of her own chicks.

The mother cat visits her kittens long enough to feed them, but apparently does not object to the assistance of the hen in the rearing of her young. A special committee was appointed to investigate the opening of night schools for the purpose of teaching English to foreign-born residents.

Miss Verna Johnston, a teacher, presented her resignation, which was accepted.

COMPLAINT FILED AGAINST LACLEDE GAS CO. RATES

Public Service Commission Probably tion's Property by Its Experts. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 7.—A complaint was filed with the Public Service Commission today, signed by more than 500 citizens of St. Louis, charge ing that the tariffs of the Laclede Gas light Co. on both gas and electric serv .5814 West Park ice are unreasonably high and discrim natory. Affidavits are signed by William C. Etter, 808 North Grand avenu and Felix Scalso, 3515 Morgan street.

The complaint declares that rates charged by the Laclede company exceet the rates paid for similar service in Detroit, Milwaukee, Indianapolis

Los Angeles. The case has not been set for hear ing. It probably will require a value tion of the company's property by the engineers and expert accountant of the commission. The commission experts are now compiling an estimated valuation of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.

M'CLELLAN IMPRESSED BY MISERY OF CIVILIANS IN WAR

arrived here today.

Before coming to Holland McClellan spent six months traveling in Italy. France, Switzerland, Germany and Bel gium. He did not visit the front at any point, however, and his war impres sions, he said, are almost entirely given up to the misery caused the civiliar population of Europe. He remarked, in particular, that he didn't understand ow Italy could go to war after she had seen the misery experienced in the previous 10 months in other countries

Husband of Mrs. Lena Menke of Kirkwood Says Message Was From Jacob Helfrich.

South Taylor avenue, Kirkwood, was reported to Constable Doerr today by her husband, F. W. Menke, who said he had found a note written to her by Jacob Heifrich, 53 years old, of 142 Webster avenue, St. Louis, a plane tuner and music teacher.

Mrs. Philippine Helfrich, wife of the "professor," as Helfrich is known, said his morning that he was still at his pocket, last Thursday, a letter which began "My Dear Sweatheart," and which was signed, "Yours Lovipgly Adeline." She said Mrs. Menke and an-other woman from Kirkwood had been her guests at luncheon only two days

Menke told Doerr and Deputy Marshal Weiss that he was sur home yesterday by a telephor some of his clothing, as well as hers, effect that Menke was "next" and that she should leave.

Menke said Helfrich had been an acquaintance of the family for more than a year. The Helfriches have had eight children, seven of whom are ation from his wife, which was fol-living, and six of whom are married weed by the wife's successful suit for Mrs. Helfrich said her husband saw her reading the letter, which she found in his pocket while looking eral times, and the writer also said she would try and get some business for Helfrich. Mrs. Helfrich said her husband sold Mrs. Menke a player-piano a year ago, and that she believed their acquaintance began then. Helfrich was about his usual work today, his wife said. She said that when she threatened to make the letter public, he begged her not to, and that he said Mrs. Menke had given him a neckties and two shirts. Mrs. Helfrich was in Quincy, Ill., for band of youthful St. Louisans are o carry the gospel of "save the bables" to Granite City, Ill., and they already assured a cordial response. Tomor-evening, at the Grand Theater, teenth and State streets, a comany of amateurs, youthful but far ad-angued in the art, will produce the hree-act comedy-drama, "For Love or doney," as a benefit for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. The progressive and prosperous Illinois community is keenly alive to and in sympathy with the event and advance

After organizing the cast and giving period of private study to the respective parts, the girls and boys began reg-ular rehearsals three weeks ago, taking counsel of older and more experienced heads, the result being letter-perfection on the lines and mastery of the stage pictures and effects. Leads in the play are to be taken by Miss Elsie Surles of 4013 North Twentysecond street, and Raymond Mountain other members of the cast, all taking oles of considerable exaction in making a finished performance as a whole include Miss Carrie Surles, sister of the female lead; Misses Voila and Edna Lectermann of 3911A North Twenty Wash street; Miss Volla Yeager of 2022A Wash street; Masters Acton of 3904 North Twenty-third street, William Grannemann of 4015 North Twenty-secand street and William Woehler of 3830 North Twenty-third street. Between Miss Gladys Mountain of 3904 North Twenty-third street, an accomplished vocalist, will sing "There's a Little Spark of Love Still Burning."

Sell Candles and Trinkets. Lattle Misses Jennie Nathan of 5027 Vaterman avenue and Helen Ruth Weil Vaterman avenue and Helen Ruth Well of 5067 Waterman sold candles and trinkets to residents on the 5000 block of the thoroughfare named and added $1.25 to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. This result was quickly and easily accomplished by reason of the popularity of the little ones with old and young in that vicinity.

old and young in that vicinity.

Four young girls residing on Connecticut street, casting about for the best way in which they might manifest the interest each felt in the welfare of the poor bables, decided upon the conduct of a lemonade stand. They made arrangements accordingly, drew the interest of people in their neighborhood and soon accumulated $1. "Hope this will be of some little help," they wrote in sending the money to the Post-Dispatch. These young philarthropists are Miriam Franklin, 3814 Connecticut street; Adele Sloan, 3815; Ruth Zimmerman, 3856, and Katherine Kirn, 3887 Connecticut street.

A show of well-sustained interest because of its varied and splendidly presented features was given by 10 girls and hays in the basement of 4408 Chouteau avenue, for the benefit of the poor bables, the proceeds being $1.83. There were songs, dances, recitations and magnitudes. ngs, dances, recitations and mag-

Duluth stocks of wheat increased 142,1000 for two days.

Minneapolis wired that one of the largest country elevator lines reports biggest receipts since Friday in its history, and that 90 per cent of the grain received was wheat.

Duluth wired that while three days' receipts there do not total quite so many cars as a year ago, it should be remembered that this movement is about 10 days later than last year.

From Bloomington, Ill., the agent of Bartlett Frazier Co. reported: On a trip through McLean, Tazewell, Logan, Mason, Menard, Cass, Morgan, Scott and Green counties, the corn looks the best I ever have seen. The stalks are all heavily eared and did not see any field with corn down more than 45 degrees. The corn appears to be turning yellow in southern part, and it all looks to be in fine shape. A few fields of oats not yet threshed.

NEW YORK, Seut. 7.—The Evening
Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"In so far as the Stock Exchange reflects the conservative public's judgfirent on a startling event and on the situation which must follow, it reflected a spirit of great calmness over the latest exploit of the German submarines. People who discussed this astonishing performance with one another during the double holiday had encountered the notion, which was bound to find expression under the circumstances, that Germany was deliberately flouting the United States. She had been able to wait a week before breaking faith. If this had been the correct view of the Hesperian episode, or the view generally entertained by the sericus business community, this morning's stock market would unquestionably have opened with heavy selling and a violent decline. But the market opened quigitly, with transactions on almost as small a scale as Saturday's, and with the early fractional declines more than recovered in the second hour.

"What Wall street, in common with nearly all people of judgment, inferred from Sunday's news was that the German Government had been placed in a very serious position, but in the governmental affairs at home rather than in its relations to this country. The Government which had been flouted was not the government at Washington, but the responsible civil government at Berlin. The humiliation of another disclaimer and apology to our State Department could not approach the humiliation of public evidence that the German Admiralty will not obey the orders of the Kalser's responsible administrators.

Exchange Rate Again Declines, but Transactions Not Large-$80,000,000 Gold Coming.

By Leased Wire From the New York

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Seut. 7.—The Evening
Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says.

"In so far as the Stock Exchange reflects the conservative public's Judgment on a startling event and on the situation which must follow, it reflected a spirit of great calmness over the latest exploit of the German submarines. People who discussed this astonishing performance with one another during the double holiday had encountered the notion, which was bound to find expression under the circumstances, that Germany was deliberately flouting the United States. She had never meant to keep her word; she had been able to wait a week before breaking faith. If this had been the correct view of the Heaperian episode, or the view generally entertained by the serious business community, this morning's stock market would unquestionably have opened with heavy selling and a violent decline. But the market opened quietly, with transactions on almost as small a scale as Saturday's, and with the early fractional declines more than recovered in the second hour.

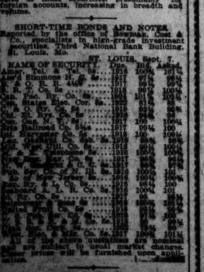

"What Wall street, in common with nearly all people of judgment, inferred from Sunday's news was that the German Government at ffairs at home rather than in its relations to this country. The Government which had been flouted was not the government at Washington, but the government at Berlin. The humiliation of another discussing the control of public evidence that the German Admiralty will not obey the order of the Kaiser's responsible administrators.
